

Aid for Aged Deficit May Boost Hospital Rates to Public

Ohio's taxpayers may soon be paying the tab on hospital care for the state's aged both in taxes and his own hospital expenses.

An Ohio hospital official said Saturday the average annual hospital in the state will suffer a $2000-a-month loss in care to aged patients unless some solution is found.

In the current financial straits, the Division of Aid for the Aged cut its subsidy limit on AFA hospital cases to 10 days effective last July 1.

This left the difference up to local and county relief agencies, but most of those agencies, Franklin County among them, are already operating with deficits and have no funds for the purpose.

"HOSPITALS ARE just a few months away from a real attack with the hardening of AFA cases beyond the 10-day limit," he said. "The hospital loss is sharp, it is because they are still going to give care."

Richard N. Cassidy, county director, said the same thing. "We don't pick up the bill for the difference" on AFA cases beyond the 10-day limit, "the hospital loss is sharp, it is because they are still going to give care."

BOTH OFFICIALS saw the situation this way, despite a ruling by Atty. Gen. William Saxbe this week that Ohio's aged is to be paid out of the AFA and local and county relief offices.

The ruling is permissive, stating county relief departments may supplement the state when state assistance is inadequate.

Cassidy pointed out Franklin County's relief agency already faces a deficit of $600,000 by the end of the year and that "an supplemental fund that figure another $100,000."

CASSIDY THOUGHT the proposal to boost the AFA's limit to 35 days of hospital care, might help. Cassidy was less optimistic.

"We cannot agree with taking care of the aged people of Ohio by a day limit," he declared.

Bandit Was Helped By Alert Delay

Local Police Not Advised of Holdup For 22 Minutes

(Pictures on Page 12)

Delay in relaying a bank holdup alert to Columbus police was cited Saturday as a major factor in the Friday escape of a bandit after a $3944 holdup at the Tuckerington Bank Co., Fairfield County.

First word of the holdup was received by Columbus authorities from a Dispatch reporter at 11 a.m.—22 minutes after report of the robbery was given Sheriff Dale George of Fairfield County.

AFTER HEARING of the robbery from the reporter, Columbus police redmen had to check by telephone for further vital information.

This required about 10 minutes and the Columbus police bank robbery plan, designed to cut off escapes of bandits, was not put into effect until 11:10 a.m.—32 minutes after the Pickerington robbery.

Lt. Wade Knight, originator of the Columbus police bank plan, said Saturday he thinks the holdup would have been apprehended had local authorities received the holdup report within 10 minutes after it occurred.

His statement came as authorities, including the FBI, continued a statewide search for the elusive gunman, who made good the escape in a stolen car which has not been recovered.

LIEUTENANT KNIGHT said that the bank plan, which surrounds a given area with officers by sending them to pre-designated areas, is effective when a robbery such as that at Pickerington is reported within 10 minutes.

Reason for the delay was not learned. Sheriff George was unavailable for comment.

FIRST WORD of the holdup was telephoned the sheriff at 10:50 a.m. by Aubrey W. Continued on Page 2, Col. 1

Film Stuffed in Nickel Leads to Accused Red Spy

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—A hollowed-out nickel stamped with microfilm collected by a youngster on his paper route aided in leading the government to Rudolf Abel, accused Soviet master spy.

James Bozart, Jr. said last night at his Brooklyn home a woman gave him the nickel and other change four years ago as payment for delivery of the now-defunct Brooklyn Eagle.

Bozart said he later accidentally dropped the hollowed-out coin and it fell apart, discharging a piece of microfilm about a one-half inch square. He said he took the film which contained numbers, to police. They notified the FBI.

Bozart, who plans to become an electrical engineer, said he never learned whether the woman was connected with the spy ring or herself received the nickel in exchange.

ABEL, 35, reputedly a colonel in Soviet intelligence, operated a photography studio in Brooklyn. He was seized June 21 by immigration agents in his Manhattan hotel room.

A Brooklyn federal grand jury indicted Abel on Aug. 7 on charges of conspiracy to transmit national defense secrets to Russia.

A trial date is scheduled to be set next Thursday.

Guard Is Removed By Faubus

Appeal Is Set; Ike Lauds 'Step in Right Direction'

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 21.—Gov. Orval Faubus, in a lightning move, withdrew the National Guard from Central High School last night and President Eisenhower today called it "a necessary step in the right direction."

Faubus' action came shortly after issuance of a federal injunction commanding him to cease using troops to resist school integration. His attorneys immediately began negotiating various avenues of legal appeal.

"As long as this order is in effect and until its certain reversal on appeal, I will comply," Faubus said.

The action by the governor of Arkansas in withdrawing the detachment of Arkansas National Guard from the Little Rock high school is a necessary step in the right direction.

"I am confident that the citizens of Little Rock and the state of Arkansas will welcome this opportunity to demonstrate that in their city and in their state proper orders of a United States court will be executed promptly and without disorder."

REP. BROOKS HAYS (D, Arkansas) who arranged last Saturday's Newport meeting between Eisenhower and Faubus, was en route to Little Rock from Oklahoma City to appraise the situation and report to the President.

Hickey pointed out that in 1956, the national agreement was ratified by an extremely narrow margin.

Store Boss Resigns In Liquor Deal

A state liquor store manager resigned after he was accused of selling and supplying whiskey from his suburban Columbus store to the private office of an E. Broad St. restaurateur and night club owner.

State Liquor Enforcement Chief Raymond J. Ripberger reported Saturday.

Ripberger said he requested and obtained the resignation Friday evening of Thomas John Slatzer, 54, of 1972 S. Kellner Rd., manager of the Town & Country liquor store.

Ripberger said 17 men of the department followed Slatzer from the liquor store to the Desert Inn, 3540 E. Broad St. They then found him with the six bottles of liquor store Scotch whiskey in the manager's office talking to Joe Alexander Sr., who owns the building.

Slatzer was taken to police headquarters and slated for investigation. He was released two and a half hours without charge after Ripberger personally questioned him, said Ripberger.
