Dear Mr Means -

I was very interested in the article in the Booster today about your renovation of the North Broadway house. My grandparents, the W. F. Scotts, purchased that home and moved there from Athens, Oh. around 1904.

My father courted my mother while she lived there and I have heard many tales of how he had to run down to High St. to catch the last interurban to town.

Among the old family pictures I still have, is one of the house taken showing it from the southeast corner. Another of my grandparents in their buggy which shows the porches on the west side of the house and a third, an interior shot which shows one of the brick mantels.

Of course these are very old snapshots but if any of them would help you authenticate your reconstruction, I would be glad to lend them to you. If you are interested, just give me a call and I will mail them to you.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Hoover
